

Watermelon Thieves
Clean Out Hempstead
Farmer's Crop

Whatever else I was going to write about today noon vanished when W. T. Spradling of Hope, Route Four walked into the office. Mr. Spradling, who raises watermelons in the Shover Springs community, had a story of midnight marauders and financial disaster.

Last night (Thursday) a crew of men parked their truck alongside the Spradling watermelon patch and stole about 250 of Hempstead county's most famous product. Spradling said there must have been several men because the truck didn't enter the field and it would have taken many hands to move those melons quickly.

He said they stripped six rows, the lot including 65 particular melons which he had earmarked for sale to the Hope Watermelon Festival committee on July 25.

The melons averaged out between 30 and 40 pounds, and their market value would have been around $400—but for one curious fact. The thieves, Spradling said, stole absolutely green melons. They were picked too soon and will never rip.

Spradling figures the gang of thieves took the truckload to some distant point expecting to dump it on buyers who don't know green melons from ripe ones.

He left The Star office to make a robbery report to the sheriff at the courthouse.

Meanwhile I was considering how our community laxness and insufficient state law combine to penalize a farmer who works hard for many weeks and then sees much of his labor lost to vandals in the dead of night.

With all the many Watermelon Festivals of past years we have never gotten around to perfecting a melon or produce growers exchange, without which it is very difficult nowadays to market a farm commodity.

And this stolen load of watermelons will go up the highway probably unchallenged unless some state policeman is lucky enough to intercept the right truck.

There ought to be a local exchange and some system of bills of sale which would require highway truckers to identify their loads—making them very difficult to give watermelon growers more protection than they now have.

Oil Fire in California Is Damaging

Wilmington, Calif., July 13 —(AP)—Civilian and military firemen battled through the night to quell the final flames of a Union Oil company tank farm fire that may have caused $2,000,000 damage.

Four 80,000-barrel gasoline tanks exploded, set four others afire and, for a while late yesterday, threatened army, navy and coast guard establishments in the Los Angeles harbor area.

Flames were still smoldering in several tanks and connecting pipelines and ditches, but barring further explosions firemen expected to extinguish the blaze today.

Early estimates of damage to the tanks and gasoline stocks ran from $750,000 to $1,000,000. Late last night, however, a company spokesman set the damage at about $2,000,000.

Three men were injured when they lost control of a high pressure hose and the thrashing line knocked them down. Fred Friess, a union employee, suffered a broken ankle, and two construction workers, Donald Daly and G. M. Montgomerz, head injuries and a broken wrist, respectively.

Heat from flaming gasoline was so intense, it melted the walls of the exploded tanks. Huge balls of seeping fumes also menaced firemen.

The fire was being fought by about 10 companies, including coast guardsmen and navy fighters utilizing sea water pumped to the scene by two navy tugs Cmdr. David H. Bartlett, captain of the tug, summoned military aid after forming the fire "a major threat to the harbor."

The tank farm has 200 of the huge storage cylinders.

The series of three blasts rocked the harbor area. The first explosion was reported felt 12 miles away.

Evening Shade Service Sunday

There will be preaching services Sunday at 11 a. m. at the Evening Shade Church with the Rev. G. Reece of Texarkana delivering the message. The public is invited.

TO TELEVISION BOUT
New York, July 13 —(AP)—The Dumont Television network has bought the rights to televise the jazz Charles-Joe Joe Wolfhoff heavy weight championship bout in Pittsburgh on July 18 for $100,000.

However, Jim Norris, president of the International Boxing club, who made the announcement yesterday, said that Pittsburgh and Johnston, Pa., would be blacked out of the telecast. The fight also will be broadcast.

County Central Committee to Meet Saturday

The Democratic Central Committee will meet tomorrow at Hope City Hall at 10 a. m. to select judges and clerks and candidates will draw for places on the ballot and discuss the controversy that has arisen in the municipal judge's office.

Probably the first job for the committee will be to elect a new chairman, replacing Harvey Barr who recently resigned.

The candidates will draw for places. Only offices with three or more candidates will draw—aldermen for Ward 1 and the mayor's race. The July 31 election is for two offices only.

The August 14, regular primary election, is for offices with two candidates. Name appearing on the ballot will include candidates for aldermen posts of wards two and three and the remaining two candidates in the alderman ward one and mayor's races.

Under a new law when an office has one candidate his name does not go on the ballot. But the committee has a special certificate which they fill out and approve and certify him a sbe nominee.

All candidates are asked to appear at Saturday meeting as judges and clerks for the July 31 election will be selected.

FBI Arrests a Wanted Desperado

Miami, Fla., July 13 —(AP)—The FBI today dropped the name of Ernest Tait, 40-year-old desperado, from its list of "10 most wanted men." He is in Miami's skyscraper jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Two FBI agents arrested the tall, quiet gunman in a Miami garage yesterday while he waited to have his new convertible serviced.

Two loaded .45 automatics with which Tait blasted his way to freedom after an attempted holdup in New Castle, Ind., on April 1 were in the car, out of reach where a garage employee had raised it on a grease rack.

An Associated Press story and picture of Tait which appeared in yesterday's Miami Herald led to his capture.

Tait gave up without a struggle to R. W. Wall, FBI agent in charge of the Miami office, and Webb Burke, his assistant.

Garageman Jesse Marrs recognized Tait when the gunman drove up in his new 1951 Oldsmobile convertible and asked to have it serviced.

"He was very quiet and pleasant and didn't act at all nervous," Marrs said. "I had his car put on the grease rack and had it hoisted in the air. Then I told our service manager to call the FBI and I told the boys not to let the car down but to act like they were working on it, but like the man came over and told them to put it down, to do it, I didn't want anybody to get shot."

The FBI had already begun closing in on Tait. They had received two other telephone calls placing him in the Miami area.

Louis Hill, operator of a restaurant in suburban Coral Gables, said Tait had been eating in his restaurant and looking at an early edition of the Herald. He left suddenly and when Hill got home, he looked through the paper.

"I nearly fell out of my chair," he said. "My customer was Tait."

Another call came from Paul Campbell, manager of a clothing store in Coral Gables, who also had recognized Tait from his picture and the story in the paper.

Campbell said Tait came into his store Tuesday and bought two suits and other articles of clothing.

"He looked just like any other guy," Campbell said, "but, boy, was he loaded. Bought over $200 worth of clothes and paid for them with small bills. I thought it was kind of funny that a fellow would have so much money in small bills, and when I saw the picture in the paper, I knew it was Tait."

Wall said Tait told him he had seen his picture in the Herald and knew he was "hot" in this area. Tait said he had been in the Miami area about 10 days, coming from Chicago. He said he bought the car in Detroit on June 1.

Tait had $2,148 in cash in his pockets when he was arrested, Wall said.

The FBI said Tait has a criminal record dating back 20 years and was shot and badly wounded in 1935 during an attempt to burglarize an Indianapolis bank.

He was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Roger Edward Davis on a charge of unlawful flight to avoid prosecution. If he waives extradition he will be returned to Indiana.

Don Miller, Wife Injured in Auto Wreck Near Warren

Don Miller, editor of the Hope Journal until publication was suspended here last Wednesday, and his wife, Mary Lou Miller, were injured last night when the automobile in which they were riding and a panel truck crashed head-on near Warren.

Mr. Miller received painful cuts and bruises but is not critically injured.

Mrs. Miller suffered a leg injury, severe cuts about an eye and face. She is being treated in a Warren hospital. Her condition was described as much more serious than her husband's. The driver of the truck was also injured.

The automobile was completely demolished. The accident is reported to have occurred on a detour between Camden and Warren.

The Millers were enroute to Monticello to visit her parents.

Oldest Human Fear Is of Falling

Fort Bragg, N. C., July 13 —(AP)—The deepest and oldest human fear, psychologists say, is the fear of falling.

Almost all the others have to be acquired through experience. But the tiniest baby will react instantly to the danger of falling or being dropped.

This being so, did you ever wonder what makes a paratrooper?

Here is a man who deliberately contravenes a powerful natural instinct. He falls by choice. True, he has a parachute, but there is a long moment of falling before it opens. And if it doesn't open, he has to be able to control his terror so that his hand won't freeze and fail to rip open the emergency chute.

Paratroopers are all volunteers. Now, why would a man volunteer for that kind of warfare?

Well, they get $50 a month extra pay, if that's a reason.

On the beach below Salerno, one moonlight night during the last war, I posed the same question to a "trooper" from the 82nd airborne who had just landed. He grinned: "I'm a frustrated flyer. This is the only way I could get in the air." Perhaps that's a reason.

Some army psychologists say that a man becomes a paratrooper to prove to himself that he isn't afraid to jump. It could be.

When you watch the 82nd training today you get still another idea.

These men fight a very different, a very special kind of warfare. The job itself sets them apart from all other troops. To handle it they have to be hard-bitten, physically and mentally. A paratrooper is all man.

His training is designed to build up that sense of being special. A paratrooper isn't allowed to walk. He has to run, wherever he goes. He runs on an assignment, and he runs with his company on a "hike." He gets more calisthenics than anybody.

When he jumps from either the 250-foot tower or the 34-foot tower, the instructor is "talking him up" to the other members of his team. It sounds like a hot football team getting up a head of steam in scrimmage:

"When this last man hits the ground, I want to hear you fellows give. Come on now, talk it up. Here he comes."

The men cheer for each jump as though he were the first, in all human history, to make the jump.

With considerable pride, they tell you that the new commanding general of the 82nd, Maj.-Gen. Thomas F. Hickey had to go off the training tower 34 times before his instructor was satisfied. Even then, the instructor, Lieut. Joseph C. Prescott, said: "I should've sent him back for one more, but I guess he's got it now."

In short nobody gets by in the 82nd, not even the boss.

Meanwhile, new airplanes and new techniques have come to the 82nd. The individual jump is only a small part of a paratrooper's job. In the last war, a paratrooper went down with nothing but his own equipment, and perhaps some anti-tank weapons and a jeep.

Today they drop a 5,000-pound howitzer, a three-quarter ton truck weighing 750 pounds, a 90-millimeter gun, and even a bulldozer. The latter required six "chutes." This is the "big drop."

The glider—that factory for air-sickness—is obsolete. The paratroopers, when they don't jump now are landed in assault transport planes. Each plane carries at least a platoon with full equipment.

The main characteristic of the plane is that it can land and take off in a ploughed field, or any equally rough ground.

It is specially designed for a unique job.

River Channel Future Depends on Conference

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—The future of navigation on the Ouachita river in southern Arkansas and northern Louisiana will be at stake at a conference Saturday morning in the office of Senator McClellan (D-Ark.).

On hand will be Maj. Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of army engineers, members of his staff and a Louisiana-Arkansas delegation.

They will discuss an order by pick withdrawing engineers from operation of three navigation locks one in Louisiana and two in Arkansas.

He has said that traffic on the river does not justify the expense of continued operation of the locks—that the closing is an economy step.

On the other hand spokesmen for the two-state group, such as Reps. Harris (D-Ark.) and Passman (D-La.), have called the order a body blow to the region.

"This is a serious blow to the economy of southern Arkansas," Harris told a reporter.

"It's the beginning of the end of navigation on the Ouachita," Passman said.

Harris said the conference in McClellan's office will be an attempt to show the engineers that operation of the locks is justified not only from the standpoint of river freight traffic but for other reasons.

He said many industries have made big investments on the assumption they would have the river as a means of navigation.

Harris pointed out that during the war navigation on the stream dropped to nothing because the government took all floating equipment for use elsewhere. Since the war the 1-2 foot channel has been redredged, he said, but the river actually has been open to navigation only two years.

"And last year the traffic was above that of the previous year," he said.

"How do you mean it is not economically feasible to operate the locks now when just six months ago they said, in their appropriation requests, that operation is feasible is beyond me."

"It is unthinkable to close now, particularly on such short notice and without any warning. I don't know yet what brought it about."

While the present navigation channel on the Ouachita is 1-2 feet, congress last year authorized dredging a 8-foot depth.

Arkansians fear that the latest move by the engineers will jeopardize the prospects for getting money for the deeper channel.

Congressmen expected to be present include: Senators McClellan, Fulbright (Ark.), and Reps. Harris and Norrell (Ark.).

Deal for Mexican Labor Is Made

Malvern, July 13 —(AP)—Arkansas Employment Security Administrator Homer M. Adkins describes as "a life saver for cotton" farmers in the Arkansas delta "a new federal act which authorizes the United States government to contract for importation of Mexican nationals to work on u. s. farms."

Adkins made the comment at his farm home near here last night after President Truman signed the bill into law yesterday.

Adkins said that without the added labor force as much as 33 1-3 per cent of the cotton crop might have been abandoned in the fields.

As an example of the pressing need, Adkins said that 15 farmers in the Pine Bluff area alone had made application for 500 Mexicans.

Driver Risks Life, Saves a Village

Eureka Springs, July 13 —(AP)—An Oklahoma truck driver risked his life to save a mountain village in northwest Arkansas from possible damage last night.

A. V. Wilson of Broken Arrow, drove his flaming double-trailer gasoline transport truck down a winding incline and past the community of Busch near here before he abandoned it.

After trying unsuccessfully to put out the flames, Wilson helped to set up road block to warn away approaching traffic.

Fixe explosions rocked the truck an hour after Wilson parked it alongside the highway. The fire and explosions demolished the vehicle.

Origin of the fire was undetermined.

Final Rites for Mrs. W. M. Reeves Held Today

Funeral services for Mrs. Nannie Cleveland Reeves, 72, wife of the late W. M. Reeves, were held at 11 a. m. today at the First Presbyterian Church of Hope with the Rev. L. T. Lawrence in charge.

Burial will be in the pioneer section of Bellwood Cemetery in Pine Bluff late today.

She is survived by two sons, William M. Reeves of Prescott, Matthew C. Reeves of Houston, two daughters, Mrs. W. T. Davis of Monroe, La., and Miss Josephine Reeves of Hope.

Explosions in 3 Plants Are Fatal to 12

By The Associated Press

Twelve men were killed and three injured in three separate explosions in industrial plants yesterday in Indiana, Illinois and California. Causes of the blasts have not been determined. Damages were estimated at more than $2,000,000.

The blast that wrecked a General Motors jet engine test building in Indianapolis killed eight civilian workers. The plant was building jet engines for the air force. An air force spokesman said there was "positively no sabotage."

An explosion blew to bits a small frame powder plant of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours company near Seneca, Ill., killing four men. The plant manufactures explosive powders and dynamite. There was about a ton of explosives in the building at the time of the blast. The body of one man who was outside the building, was recovered. Only parts of the other three were found.

Fire followed a series of explosions in a storage tank area of the Union Oil company's refinery in Wilmington, Calif., causing damages estimated at "about 2,000,000." Four 80-barrel gasoline tanks exploded rocking the Los Angeles harbor area. Four workers were set fire and flames for a while threatened army, navy and coast guard establishments in the Los Angeles harbor area.

Firemen fought through the night to put out the flames which still smoldered in several tanks and connecting pipelines and ditches. Three workmen were injured.

Lodge Wants 150 Group Airforce

Was him got, July 13 —(UP)—Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., R-Mass., called today for a 150-group American air force with 10,000 of its planes earmarked for the defense of Western Europe.

His proposal would cost $32,000,000 in this fiscal year and comparable sums unit next two fiscal years.

Lodge said a senate military spending subcommittee that the United States is courting "national disaster" unless it abandons a "muddling along" defense policy. He said that at least 2-1/2 air superiority must be obtained over the Soviets in Europe. Heavy emphasis, he said, should be placed on tactical air strength to support ground troops.

He testified as a review of defense spending was ordered to "shave billions" from the program without impairing national security.

The present air force goal is 95 groups, costing $22,000,000,000 this fiscal year. Lodge would boost this figure by $10,000,000,000 to start the 150-group program. His proposal calls for spending $27,000,000,000 in the fiscal year starting next July 1 and $37,000,000,000 for the Lodge program in fiscal 1944.

Lodge admitted his program would "drastically affect" all of the government's fiscal policies. But he said the proposed spending total would be an infinitesimal fraction of the cost of a third world war which American air superiority might avert.

Lodge estimated that the Soviets have 8,000 tactical planes available for an attack through Western Europe. He added that the Russians have greatly stepped up their aircraft production.

Arkansas Will Call

Little Rock, July 13 —(AP)—Draft calls will go to 210 Arkansas men in August, Maj. Carl D. Wells, head of the manpower division of the Arkansas selective service office, said today.

The defense department set a quota of 150 men for Arkansas, but 210 will receive greetings in order that the entire quota can be met.

Originally the Arkansas August quota was 94 men, but a stepped up call announced in Washington this week resulted in the increase.

Allies Advance Through Heavy Red Gunfire

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, July 13 —(AP)—Allied troops today advanced up to three miles through heavy Red gunfire in a limited objective attack on the east-central front.

The fighting, southeast of the Red base of Kumsong, was the main ground action in the Korean war.

U. S. night fighter planes shot down two small Red planes near the Allied peace camp at Munsan, one Thursday night and the other Friday.

While cease-fire talks at Kaesong, remained stalled, there were persistent reports of Red buildups behind the lines.

But an Allied officer on the Western front said there was nothing to indicate the Reds were preparing to launch an offensive in the immediate future.

He said, however, their "capabilities are increasing."

Latest estimates placed enemy strength at 350,000 men across the front and immediately in reserve.

An Allied patrol in the west Thursday observed a Chinese Communist company southeast of Kaesong, at the edge of the neutral zone between Munsan and Kaesong.

Farther southeast of the neutral zone, the same Allied patrol was fired on by about 50 Reds.

AP Correspondent George A. MacArthur reported from the eastern front that Allied infantrymen from the Hwachon reservoir to the East coast relaxed Friday for the first time in six weeks.

Only one Allende patrol made contact with Reds in the area.

MacArthur said Communist mortars and artillery harassed Allied lines Thursday night but were silent Friday.

Presbyterians to Hold Ground Breaking Rites

The First Presbyterian church's Building Program gets under way Sunday morning, July 15th, with a Ground-Breaking Service at the site of the new Mansie on South Main Street near Sixth. Construction on the new $200,000 Mansie will begin next week.

The service will begin Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian Church at 10:05 o'clock. Dr. L. T. Lawrence, minister, will preach on the subject "Except the Lord Build the House." Special music will be an anthem by the choir "Spirit of God" by Lewis. The choir is under the direction of Mrs. R. L. Gosnell, Director of Music.

The congregation will leave the church at 11:45, going directly to the site of the new Mansie for the Ground-Breaking Ceremony. Here all will unite in the singing of the hymn "We Cannot Build Alone," led by Charles Armitage, and there will be a prayer in unison, following which John B. Love, Chairman of the Building Committee, will shovel the first shovel of dirt. Other participating will be Vincent Foster, President of the Men of the Church, James Pilkinton, Dorsey McRae, Mrs. Tom McRae, Mrs. J. W. Branch, James H. Miller, Superintendent of Sunday School, Charles W. Tarpley, Chairman of the Board of Deacons, Carson Lewis, Tom McLarty, C. C. McNeil, all members of the Building, Purchase and Finance Committees, F. N. Porter, architect, C. C. Spragins, Clerk of the Session, Mrs. H. B. Barr, President of the Women of the Church, Miss Ann Burr, President of the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship, and Mrs. Nell Crank, Adult Advisor of the Presbyterian Youth Fellowship.

The service will be closed with the Mizpah Benediction and the singing of the Doxology led by Charles Armitage.

Ridgway Wants Peace Talks Free of Guards

By NATE PLOWETZKY

Seoul, Korea, July 13 —(AP)—The Allied command told the Reds today: Korean war cease-fire talks will be resumed only when United Nations delegates have unrestricted movement in an area free of armed guards.

Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway sent that virtual ultimatum to top Communist commanders after the Reds rejected an Allied demand that news correspondents be accepted as part of U. N. personnel in the conference area.

The supreme commander demanded that:

1. The Reds get their armed guards out of Kaesong — original site of armistice talks — or agree to meet somewhere else.
2. End "unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions" on his negotiators and let them move freely.
3. Accept anyone he names as part of the U. N. delegation.

Ridgway's message was broadcast just two hours and 20 minutes after the Reds rejected the third point, originally made yesterday by Adm. C. Turner Joy, chief U. N. negotiator.

The rejection came from North Korean Gen. Nam Il, chief Red cease-fire delegate, in a reply to Joy.

Nam suggested the delegates meet at 1 p. m. Friday 9 p. m. Thursday CST for further discussions.

Joy said Thursday that negotiations would be resumed as soon as the Communists agreed to pass any U. N. personnel designated by the Allied command, including newspapermen.

Nam replied: "Neither side's news reports or news representatives can come into the area until both sides have agreed."

This reply was delivered to a U. N. liaison officer at 10:33 a. m. but the Allied command did not announce it until 12 hours later—after Nam's message had been broadcast by both the Red Peiping and Pyongyang radios. The delay was not explained.

General Ridgway's headquarters in Tokyo said:

"This reply offered no settlement of the issues contained in General Ridgway's message to General Kim Il Sung and Peng Teh-huai, which was then in preparation and later broadcast at 1315 hours 1:15 p. m. today.

"No reply to General Ridgway's message has been received."

Kim is the North Korean premier. Peng is the commander of Chinese troops in Korea.

By going directly to them, Gen. Ridgway took the issues out of the hands of the cease-fire negotiators.

The U. N. commander blamed "unreasonable and unnecessary restrictions" imposed by the Reds upon the U. N. representatives for the interruption of negotiations.

He insisted negotiations could be resumed only in an area "complete free of armed personnel of either side" and in an atmosphere of "complete reciprocity of treatment."

Ridgway's message was broadcast in English, Chinese and Korean; from Korea and Japan; from shore and ship stations. And an air courier delivered it at the Red warhead between the Allied peace camp at Munsan and Kaesong. It was at the road block that Communist guards had held out U. N. convoy Thursday containing 20 newsmen.

Ridgway made three proposals to implement his demands. If they are met, he said, the conference can be "resumed without delay and with some expectation of progress."

General Matthew Ridgway has told the Reds that cease-fire negotiations will be resumed in Korea only when U. N. delegates can move about without restriction and free of armed Communist guards. The Allied commander sent that virtual ultimatum to the Reds after they had rejected a UN demand that news correspondents be accepted in the conference area immediately. General Ridgway earlier had told the Reds to get their armed guards out of Kaesong or move the cease-fire meeting place somewhere else.

The fighting front in Korea has been comparatively quiet, but there was a sharp action today southeast of the Red base at Kumsong. Allied troops in that sector advanced up to three miles through heavy Red gunfire at that point on the East-central front. Elsewhere there limited patrol actions. And in the air, Allied fighting pounded Communist anti-aircraft positions, railroad yards and a dam bridge.

The State Department's voice of America radio has accused the Communists of bad faith in Korean armistice negotiations. The broadcast gave three reasons for the charge: The Red refusal to permit Allied newsmen to go to Kaesong; the presence of Red armed guards in Kaesong; and a building of land and air power in Manchuria and China.

Looking for Monkey After

New Orleans, July 13 —(AP)—Anyone seen a monkey riding atop a train? A dozen Strauss monkeys were way out of their cage express platform here today. Six of them have been seen. C. F. Lindley, freight manager, said two of the monkeys hopped a passing train and were last seen Saturday night.

Lindley doubts the monkeys could have escaped from the pens at the Southern California station intended for use in the circus.

Hearing in Gazette Strike Still Underway

Little Rock, July 12.—(AP)—Disapproval of strike procedure of an American Newspaper Guild local caused five Arkansas Gazette circulation employees to resign, one of them testified yesterday.

Paul East, a traveling circulation representative for the Gazette, said as a national labor relations board hearing that he and four others withdrew from Local 209 of the A.N.G. union. He identified a letter in which they notified Gazette Publisher Hugh B. Patterson, Jr., that they no longer were connected with the guild.

The NLRB is hearing charges against the newspaper of committing unfair labor practices. The resigning is a result of a 10-month, unsettled strike against the newspaper.

The letter, which bore the signatures of all five circulation men, said they had decided there should have been an NLRB election to determine whether the guild represented a majority of circulation employees before any of the latter joined in the strike.

No election was held in the circulation department, although the guild won an election among newsroom employees, who organized the local. Circulation people have contended they struck for recognition because they were afraid they might lose their jobs.

Man Who Likes Jail May Go Back

Miami, Fla., July 12.—(AP)—Fred P. Roberts, the 36-year-old man who said he wanted to die in jail may have to serve an 18-month federal prison term.

Criminal Court Judge Ben C. Willard found him guilty yesterday of obtaining money under false pretenses and asked the sheriff to notify federal officers of the verdict.

Judge Willard said Roberts had been out on federal probation on an 18-month sentence for forgery before his arrest in the present case.

Roberts explained his preference for jail this way:

"I can't make a living and I'm sick and I'm getting to be an old man. Besides, I owe $3,500 and simply can't raise it."

Whatever you haul
In the years ahead... here's CERTIFIED PROOF of Ford Truck durability that can save you money!

- Certified figures show Ford Trucks last up to 15.4% longer than 4 other leading makes. This is a saving of up to one year's depreciation on the average truck.
- You save on long life. And you save on running costs with thrifty Ford Trucks.
- Remember, over 5,000 drivers logged better than 50 million miles in a nationwide Economy Run to show how little Ford Trucks cost to run. They demonstrated that Ford's Power Pilot gives the most power from the least gas. Only Ford in the low-price field offers this feature!

DOROTHY DIX

Generosity

Dear Miss Dix: I would like your opinion in this matter. I have a friend, Sally, whose husband Gerald is one of the most generous people I ever knew. When he makes friends, he makes brothers and sisters, moms and dads of them. If he hears of someone in financial difficulties he is ready with a helping hand and puts more food in their homes than they ever had before. He brings gifts to everyone he visits. When he and his wife go out they delight in talking with them people who otherwise would never get out of the house. Every one's problems are his.

He does this to the point of depriving his family of clothes and luxuries. His wife goes along with his plans as long as that is what makes him happy. Regardless of the faith or nationality of people in trouble, he is there to help.

I have told him they are just making easy marks of themselves. There is such a thing as carrying this too far. Don't you think his first duty is to see that his family is the best dressed and has the best home in town. Their home is a friendly and loving one, his wife and children are adored by him. He has a good job, makes a good salary but doesn't have a cent in the bank. His wife says they have their health and get pleasure in doing what they can for others. I think if they keep up at the they are doing, people won't appreciate their kindness and will soon take them for granted.

True Selflessness
Answer: You are very lucky have such people for friends. Perfect charity is the rarest of virtues in the world and judging from your description these folks have it.

Many people will be generous with money, but those who will give of their time and attention are few indeed. The family of your friends may not be the best dressed in town, nor their home the finest but they are clothed in the glow of true love—love of one's fellowmen—and housed in a mansion of selflessness that millions of dollars alone couldn't buy.

It is possible that people will take such generosity for granted, and eventually take advantage of it. In fact, it is impossible to assume that everyone is grateful for a helping hand; the truth is that many are not, but we can't penalize those who are truly needy and sincerely grateful for the few ingrates.

I do agree with you that your friends should make some provision for their own future. As with all things, a happy medium between liberality and penny would here be the ideal state of life. However, if I had to make a happy choice between a miser who hoarded money and love, ignoring the woes of his fellowman, and a Gerald who took the whole world to his heart, my decision would take but an instant. The Lord loveth a cheerful giver—and so do I!

Dear Dorothy Dix: I have two grown sons with families and good positions. I am a widow and I live by myself. My sons have each been sending me $15 every other month. With this help I can get along very nicely as I have several part-time jobs.

Recently, however, one of my sons has written saying that rather than send the money he would rather go to live with him, his wife and three children. He believes that the older generation must fit itself to the convenience of the younger. I, however, wish to retain my independence and do not feel that I could be useful or happy in my daughter-in-law's home, even though I like and respect her.

What should I do?
P. G.
Answer: I can't for the life of me see why your son should want to upset the deal arrangement you have worked out for yourself, to save a mere $7.50 a month—and it would cost him that to keep you in his own home anyway. His wife, too, must be pretty short-sighted to let him consider altering your way of life. A man's wife and mother are always better kept apart. No matter how much they like and respect each other, friction will occur. As your situation is now everyone is peaceful, happy and content. Your son will be foolish indeed to upset it if you should certainly make every endeavor to maintain the independence you cherish.

Dear Miss Dix: There are two boys that tell me they love me and want to marry me. I'm not sure which one I want. One of them wants to finish college before he marries. He is always over at my house. The other one only comes about once a month. How can I be sure which one loves me and which one I love?

Answer: You make love and marriage sound like a game of penny-ante. If you are so uncertain about your two suitors neither of them is the man for you. When true love comes along you'll know it.

No Limit on Time 'Ike' Will Be Needed

Washington, July 13 —(AP)—President Truman has added to the confusion about 1952 presidential prospects by saying there is no time limit on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's European defense job.

Mr. Truman told his news conference yesterday he and the five-star general have no understanding about how long Eisenhower will remain as commander of the North Atlantic forces.

Some Republicans who want "Ike" to become their presidential candidate next year have been hoping Eisenhower could step out early in 1952 and turn the defense job over to somebody else.

They apparently were assuming he had promised the President to serve a year to get the program started and then would be free to resume his civilian role as president of Columbia university — or some other job.

The prospect that Eisenhower might still be in uniform next June when their nominating convention gets underway is not viewed happily by this group.

Mr. Truman told reporters he had had no recent discussion with the general about politics, adding he could only indulge in speculation as to whether Eisenhower is a Republican or a Democrat. Some Democrats have suggested the general as a candidate on their ticket, if Mr. Truman doesn't run.

When a reporter said Mr. Truman had declared in 1948 that Eisenhower had assured him he never would run for President, he insisted that the newsman eliminate the word "never."

The President said Eisenhower's statement applied to 1948 and he took the general at his word so far as that year was concerned. But that was as far as Eisenhower went, he said.

The President said he himself is as fit as a fiddle and still young enough to make a good race-foot race, he meant.

A visiting reporter from Macon, Ga., brought this on by observing that the President looked younger than the newsman had expected.

That was a god way to start covering his conferences, Mr. Truman said with a broad grin, adding he was in better physical condition than ever before.

Asked about his 1952 plans, the President said he would let the reporters know in plenty of time. Pushed on the matter of becoming a candidate, he said that question would be answered when he made an announcement he is not yet ready to make. He changed the "when" to "if" when reporters pressed that point.

Nine Persons Die Violently

By The Associated Press
Three persons died violently in Arkansas Thursday, bringing the week's total to nine.

A 58-year-old truck driver was injured fatally near Fort Smith when his truck overturned and pinned him beneath the wreckage.

State police said Luther Stern of Fort Smith was trapped in the truck for more than an hour before rescuers could free him. He died in a Fort Smith hospital shortly after being admitted.

Two workers were electrocuted on a rice plantation between Lake Village and Jerome.

William Edward Presson, 42, and Cecil H. Blanton, 27, died when the pipe they were installing in a wall accidentally touched a high tension power line.

Another industrial fatality occurred Wednesday. Junior Thowser, a 19-year-old sawmill worker who lived in Dallas county, was killed when his skull was split by a woodworking machine at the mill.

HAVE you watched the face of the sunflower as it follows the sun through the day? It seems ever so fearful that it will lose one single ray of the sun. It looks ever to God. And in repayment for that devotion the creative power of the sun blesses with abundant beauty and fertility. Straight and tall grows the stalk, strong and sturdy are the fibers which support the sunflower. Little wonder that one of the states delights to call itself "The Sunflower State." For it is a symbol of the rich harvests that fill the grainaries for bird and beast. The sunflower looks to God all day.

How rich and beautiful would our personalities become if we thus looked in the sunshine of God's grace and goodness! You and I can begin the day with our first glance toward the gracious Giver of the blessings which surround us. For the health and the vigor of body and mind. For the opportunity of living with those who love us. For the place of toil where we may lose ourselves in good service. For these and other blessings we ought to look toward the warmth and beauty of divine grace. Perhaps the ordinary job will take on radiant meaning and we shall enter into a fellowship of helpfulness with God if we would but turn our eyes upward. Would it not give every life a larger glory, if all the day long we are mindful of our kinship to deity? The day would come to wonderful climax as we walk in the cool of the evening, to report the good attempted in His Name. Let us ask God to walk with us to church. Let us keep our eyes fixed on Him just as the sunflower does.
